ITS-CT Seeks Award Candidates to Encourage Excellence and Innovation

Do you know of an ITS project or professional that deserves special recognition? Fall is the perfect time to reflect on your achievements and those of your colleagues.

The awards recognize excellent projects and programs, as well as individual achievements. Last year's recipients included both private sector and government members.

The project or program does not have to be implemented in Connecticut, as long as a significant amount of the work involved was done here. This is not just about what our members do for the state – it's also about what they do for the nation and the world.

Many of our nominations and awards come from the organization that has actually performed the work. In other words, don't be modest, and don't wait for someone else to nominate you.
